STATOTHR

In response to your request of 17 August 1957, The Central Intelligence Agency does not make free distribution of its publications. Nor are Agency publications sold through the normal distribution channels of the Government Printing Office. The work of the Agency is defined as sensitive by various Federal laws, therefore, in order to protect its information, its documents are generally security classified, produced in very limited quantities and distributed only through special channels to individuals with clearance to see and act on the contents.

Sincerely

25X1A

Chief, Document Division
